

Required Syllabi Insert

Syllabus for: (name of class) History 9
Semester & Year:	Fall 2014
Course ID and Section Number:	History 9 (035870)
Number of Credits/Units:	3
Day/Time:	TuTh 1:15-2:40
Location:	SC208
Instructor's Name:	Potamianos
Contact Information:	Office location and hours: CA 119 (M 11:30-2:00; TuTh 11:45-12:30, by appt.) Phone: 707-476-4318 Email: george-potamianos@redwoods.edu
Course Description (catalog description as described in course outline): An exploration in the history of the United States from the Re- construction period after the Civil War to the present. Of special importance is how the social, cultural, political, diplomatic, ethnic, and economic relations and institutions changed over time. The course will also introduce students to the nature of historical interpretation and how to interpret sources written during the historical time periods investigated in the class.
Student Learning Outcomes (as described in course outline) : 1.Analyze and assess the merits of various historical interpretations. 2.Analyze the major social, political, economic, diplomatic, and cultural developments in North America and the United States from the period of Reconstruction after the American Civil War to the present. 3.Apply secondary and/or primary source material to construct written and oral, logical, historical arguments.
Syllabus for: (name of class) English 1A – Analytical Reading and Writing
Semester & Year:	Fall semester 2014
Course ID and Section Number:	036161
Number of Credits/Units:	4
Day/Time:	TTH 3:15-5:20PM
Location:	LRC105
Instructor's Name:	P. Blakemore
Contact Information:	Office location and hours: CA 134 / MW 9:00-10:00, TH 11-12 Phone: 476-4314 Email: peter-blakemore@redwoods.edu
Course Description (catalog description as described in course outline): A transfer-level course in critical reading and reasoned writing. Students analyze issues and claims presented in visual, oral, or written arguments and write analytical and argumentative essays based on those issues. Research and source-based writing, employing correct MLA documentation, is required.
Student Learning Outcomes (as described in course outline) : 1. Analyze argumentative claims. 2. Respond to arguments with persuasive critical essays. 3. Locate, synthesize, and document sources for use in response to arguments. 4. Revise and edit for sentence structure and mechanics.
Special accommodations: College of the Redwoods complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act in making reasonable accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. Please present your written accommodation request at least one week before the first test so that necessary arrangements can be made. No last-minute arrangements or post-test adjustments will be made. If you have a disability or believe you might benefit from disability related services and may need accommodations, please see me or contact Disabled Students Programs and Services. Students may make requests for alternative media by contacting DSPS.
Academic Misconduct: Cheating, plagiarism, collusion, abuse of resource materials, computer misuse, fabrication or falsification, multiple submissions, complicity in academic misconduct, and/ or bearing false witness will not be tolerated. Violations will be dealt with according to the procedures and sanctions proscribed by the College of the Redwoods. Students caught plagiarizing or cheating on exams will receive an "F" in the course.
The student code of conduct is available on the College of the Redwoods website at: http://www.redwoods.edu/District/Board/New/Chapter5/Chapter5500.pdf
College of the Redwoods is committed to equal opportunity in employment, admission to the college, and in the conduct of all of its programs and activities.

Problems of the Environment, the West, and the Working Classes in US History - Fall 2014
English 1A – Analytical Reading & Writing / #E6161
US History 9—Reconstruction to the Present / #E5870
TTh 1:15– 2:40 in SC 208 & 3:15 – 5:20 in LRC 105

Dr. Peter Blakemore
 CA 134 / Phone: 476-4314
 Off hours: MW 9-10; TH 11:00-12 or by appt
peter-blakemore@redwoods.edu

Dr. George Potamianos
 CA 119 / Phone: 476-4318
 Office hours: M 11:30-2:00; TuTh
 11:45-12:30 & by appt.
george-potamianos@redwoods.edu

Required Texts & Course Materials:

1. The Shape of Reason, John Gage
2. They Say, I Say, Gerald Graff & Cathy Birkenstein
3. Preserving the Nation, Thomas R. Wellock
4. From the Folks Who Brought You the Weekend, P. Murolo & A.B. Chitty
5. The Bedford Handbook, 8th Edition, Dianna Hacker
6. Additional course readings available at:
www.redwoods.edu/instruct/pblakemore/1AH9fall14.html
7. A good (at least 70,000 words) paperback dictionary
8. A composition notebook
9. Access to the Internet
10. Access to word processing and printing
11. Flash drive storage device

Prerequisites: Satisfactory completion of English 150 (or equivalent) with a C or better, or assessment recommendation for English 1A.

Course Goals: These linked classes will be taught as a single, 7-unit course during the term. Both professors will be working with you in the classroom throughout the semester. Mainly we will focus on reading, critical thinking, and writing about arguments of the past 150 years of US history specifically related to the environment, the West, and the working classes. That means that we will be reading especially carefully, analyzing what we read with critical minds, searching for the best, most productive historical questions, and writing about what we discover in the process. As we work through the semester, we will strive to develop skills that should help you in future reading and inquiry. The skills you hone and the habits of mind you gain in this course should also be particularly useful as you continue here at College of the Redwoods and in your future education. By the end of this term, if you have actively participated in the work we do together, you will know what it means to hold an opinion about an issue in US history and whether that opinion is based on reasoned belief, emotional appeal, authority, or something else.

Student Learning Outcomes: By the end of the term, if you have successfully completed the class you should be able to:

- Analyze and assess the merits of various historical interpretations.
- Analyze the major social, political, economic, diplomatic, and cultural developments in North America and the United States from the period of Reconstruction after the American Civil War to the present.
- Apply secondary and/or primary source material to construct written and oral, logical, historical arguments.
- Analyze argumentative claims.
- Respond to arguments with persuasive critical essays.
- Locate, synthesize, and document sources for use in response to arguments.
- Revise and edit for sentence structure and mechanics.

Reading Actively: At first glance, the list of texts may seem daunting, but remember that we have selected these texts because we believe they should stimulate your minds and give you important insights into critical thinking, communicating, researching and learning how to practice the sort of skills you will need through the rest of your college coursework. And remember this, too: you are reading for two classes combined into one. That said, we will be asking a good deal of you in your reading--most importantly of all, we ask you to practice active reading. That means that when you read, you ask questions, you wonder about connections, and you struggle to make meaning out of complex ideas. You will need to engage our texts with a spirit of discovery and skepticism. You will also need to be ready to engage in useful, penetrating discussions and group activities about our readings and the ideas we encounter. Toward that end, we require that each of you purchase a separate reading notebook in which you will keep notes, thoughts, and ideas for the purpose of preparing for in-class writings and discussion and keeping track of material and ideas you encounter as you engage in research.

If you read actively and participate strongly in our discussions and in your individual groups, you will soon see that the selected texts complement and speak to one another. You will, in short, begin to recognize the interconnectedness of inquiry and critical thinking, historical consciousness and composing and presenting your own complex ideas in words. We have organized the course and selected books and essays that should lend themselves to the process of questioning assumptions and discovering the basis for our opinions, particularly where US western, environmental, and racial history are concerned. In general, the central question we will be asking each of you to answer is this: What do these writings, ideas, class discussions, and group presentations lead me to believe? There will be a host of other, more specific questions about historical analysis, critical thinking, rhetoric, research, and composition that arise out of our reading, listening, viewing, talking, and writing, but as long as you are actively pursuing your own understanding of the difficult issues we take up, you should have no problem remaining engaged in our class.

Note: the key word above is “actively.” To become a more active student you will have to understand the value of our work for yourself individually and for your community as a collective body. That means you will have to believe that deeper understanding of specific issues in history can have an effect on your actual life. It also means reading with an open mind, fully prepared to entertain new ideas, new images, and new concepts. It means trying to imagine the experiences of those you read about and trying to understand how they were affected by these incidents and thoughts. Reading actively also means you will have to believe that a book—and the ideas and expressions contained within it—can affect a person's life. The reading for this course will demand a great deal from you—please expect to devote a significant amount of time to your reading.

Writing Thoughtfully: It takes most people years to develop a strong personal style in their writing, so please bear this in mind and be patient with yourself as we work through the assignments during this term. Though you may not see the kind of prominent improvement you'd like in just a month or two, many others who read your work and have more objectivity about it will likely notice changes (especially people like us who have been reading college students' essays for a combined total of more than 45 years). One of the most important things you will get from this class if you participate and strive to write better will be a greater consciousness of what happens as you generate ideas, plan and organize your thoughts, then execute and improve them through the process of revision. If you approach your writing in this course as the practice of trying ideas, opinions, and beliefs (the word "essay" derives from the French term for "try"), then you will almost certainly grow as a writer. As for the mechanics and grammar of your writing, since some of you will have excellent skills and others fair to good skills, those of you who have problems will need to spend extra time learning to identify and correct them. We may ask some of you to arrange for individual meetings if your errors persist, but this course is not primarily a course in grammar, punctuation, and mechanics. Throughout the term, we will focus specifically on questions of style and eloquence, but in the main we will be practicing inquiry and argument.

The Assignments: Please pay close attention to the Course Schedule in order to keep track of when readings should be done and when the writing is due. Note: All reading assignments must be done before the start of the class listed. All writing assignments are due at the beginning of class on the day listed. Be sure to come to class prepared for discussion. Brief descriptions of the graded writing assignments follow. (Note: Do not expect to pass this class without handing in all of the writing assignments. Also, make sure you never give us the only copy of an assignment—it is your responsibility to keep electronic and/or paper backup copies.)

The Writing: You will be working on several different kinds of writing projects this semester. We will ask you to write in class several times. There will also be two short Research Inquiry & Progress Essays, a Group Project Report, and an Individual Research Project Essay. A list of the due dates for these writings follows:

- In-class Writing #1—Tuesday, September 2
- In-class Writing #2—Tuesday, September 16
- RI&PE Essay #1 (4+ pages)—Tuesday, September 30

- In-Class Writing #3—Thursday, October 2
- Group Project Report - Version 1 (6+ pages) –Paper Copy, October 9
- Group Project Report - Final Version (8+ pages) –Electronic Copy (in MS Word or as a PDF), October 16, by midnight
- In-class Writing #4- Tuesday, October 28
- RI&PE Essay #2 (4 pages) – Thursday, November 20
- Individual Research Project Essay-Version 1 (5-6 pages)—bring to conference meeting on December 2 or 4
- Individual Research Project Essay-Final Version (10+ pages) Thursday, December 11 by 3pm.

Rewrite Policy: Class members who choose to revise essays to improve them and receive additional credit must fill out a Rewrite Contract that we will give you upon request. You must ask us for one of these contract forms within one week of our returning the writing.

Late Paper Policy: If an emergency arises and you cannot turn in the RI&PE #1 or #2 on time, you must contact us within 24 hours of its due date to arrange a time when you will be permitted to submit the paper. We will not accept any late papers unless you contact us within the time specified. Depending upon the circumstances, you may not receive full credit for late work. You can only turn in a late RI&PE once during the semester. In-class writing exercises will only take place on the day listed in the schedule. No make-ups, regardless of the reason for your absence.

Focusing on Problems and Questions at Issue: In this class we will spend the majority of our time trying to solve problems. We will start the problem-solving process by asking questions. In academic work, discovering what is at issue often leads into deeper understanding and is one of the first steps in actively researching ideas in order to arrive at reasoned conclusions. For us in this class, the two main problems we will deal with during the semester are:

Problem 1) How do we identify a focus within the larger topic of US environmental and Western history since 1865 and work together in groups to explore aspects of that focus, and how do we then present our materials to the larger class community in such a way that they understand both the significance of what we have discovered and the process we used to come to our reasoned conclusion?

Problem 2) Based on what we have learned from our work on Problem 1, how do we individually identify and research an historical problem or question at issue within the larger topics of class and labor in America since 1865, and how do we then communicate or present our research and conclusions based upon it to the class community?

Group Work: The overarching issue you will deal with during the term is: How do we do this together? Since Problem 1 culminates in a Group Presentation and Group Project Report, you will need to figure out how to work together. Problem 2, on the other hand, leads toward an individual Research Project Essay & Individual Presentation, so the group work you do during that part of the semester will be of a different nature. We have designed this course so that you, the individual members of the class, will decide how to solve these problems.

In-class Writing: You should always come to class with pen and paper and your reading notebook, and you should always be ready to write. In fact, we will usually ask you to write during class—and you should definitely take notes on our discussion and any lectures. Sometimes the writings will seem more like free-writes to generate ideas for the longer out-of-class inquiries and essays. At other times we will ask you to practice concepts of style and sentence construction or academic form such as quoting, citing, or paraphrasing. You will always need to be prepared to read what you write so, please, no squirming or embarrassment about your ideas or your word choice or the rest. One of the most important aspects of learning to write and reason is learning a sense of audience. Since all the members of our class will be your audience, you need to be prepared to address that audience.

Attendance & Participation: Since the main purpose of this class is to bring us all together so that we can engage one another in the process of discovering ideas, reasons, opinions and beliefs, each of you needs to be in the classroom on time, ready to think, speak, read, and write. Participating by listening and trying out one's ideas and thoughts during class time is so important to a class like ours that we have decided to set the following attendance policy: students with more than three unexcused absences will drop one grade in the participation portion of their grades. If there are good reasons why you need to miss class, call one of our office phones and let us know before class meets. You should know that poor attendance will certainly lower your grade and may cause you to fail.

A significant portion of your attendance and participation grade will be based on the following:

1. Discussion Board Posting: There is a website for this class at mycr.redwoods.edu. You are required to post a response to and at least two questions about the readings before each class meeting in the “Discussion Board” section of the site and respond to the comments of others on the list. Postings to the board are due before class meetings, by 11:00AM. We will use the board to guide our discussion for the next day.
2. The extent to which you complete the assigned readings
3. Your use of your time in LRC 105 to research and write
4. Your presentations of the three different “Selected Readings”
5. Your participation in the class “Forums” (these are different from the “Discussion Boards”) that we will set up throughout the semester

Grading: Since both instructors will be reading all of your written work and grading the work holistically together, all assignments and grades apply to both classes. The breakdown for course grades is as follows:

- ◆ Participation (Class discussion and on-line posting to discussion boards, writing quizzes, and presentations of selected readings) 20%
- ◆ RI&PE Essay #1 10%

◆ In-class Writing scores will be calculated)	15% (the three best
◆ Group Presentation	5%
◆ Group Project Report	10%
◆ RI&PE Essay #2	10%
◆ Individual Research Project Presentation	5%
◆ Individual Research Project	25%
◆ Total	100%

Grades will be assigned on the basis of this scale: 93-100=A / 90-92=A- / 88-89=B+ / 83-87=B / 80-82=B- / 70 –77=C / 78-79=C+ / 60 – 69=D / 59 and below=F.

Learning Disabilities: Students who have special needs due to physical or learning disabilities should let us know at the very beginning of the course (we mean during this first week) so that we can arrange appropriate accommodations.

An Invitation: Finally, experience tells us that people who think carefully about their education and become more reflective about it generally have the greatest success. Probably the best way to get involved in this process is to get to know your teachers and speak with them outside of the classroom. Talk to them after class. Visit them in their offices. Make appointments and let them know what’s going through your mind as it relates to your work in their classes. And most important of all, let your teachers know if something in particular isn’t coming across clearly for you. Sometimes your problem is just a particularly difficult concept, a complex section of reading, or a challenging assignment or series of assignments. Your teachers will, in almost every case, want to help you work through those tougher parts of the class. But you need to communicate with them. You especially need to communicate with us—this is an intense and very involved class that requires a lot of discipline from you. If you feel that you are falling behind, you should let us know right away. If you ask either of us, we will offer plenty of extra help and even direct you toward others who can help. If you choose to sign up for English 52, you can meet with other English instructors in the Writing Center in LRC 102. We have also kept our office hours minimal or by appointment in order to give students maximum flexibility for meetings. Even if our schedules seem to clash at first glance, come see us—we will certainly be able to schedule a time to meet. If you have to contact either of us, please call our offices (George: 476-4318; Peter: 476-4314) and leave a clear, specific message, including a telephone number and time when you can be reached. We will get back to you as soon as possible. We look forward to getting to know each of you better and to seeing all of you succeed. Welcome and good luck!

Fall 2014 Course Schedule for

P. Blakemore's & G. Potamianos' English 1A & History 9 (Note: if changes are required, you will receive ample notice. All readings should be completed before class on the day listed; you should be prepared to write during every class session.)

Week 1 / August 25 & 28

T - Course intro; syllabus, introductions, readings, and discussion.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Wellock, Preserving the Nation (PN) pp. 1-29.

Assignment: Post at least two questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about the reading on the MyCR discussion board any time before Thursday, August 28 at 11AM. Be prepared to write briefly about one of the problems/issues/questions in the readings during the second period.

Week 2 / September 2 & 4

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Be prepared for In-class Writing #1 about John Tosh on the practice of history in Reading 1 available on the website www.redwoods.edu/instruct/pblakemore/1AH9fall14.html Students should print out a copy of Reading 1 and bring it with them to class for “open-book” In-class Writing #1. Gage The Shape of Reason (SOR), Chapters 1 & 2; first period in-class writing and discussion.

Assignment: In-Class Writing #1; Be prepared to discuss in class the following: Based on John Tosh's work, what is an “historical problem”? How should someone frame a problem historically? What is a good historical question?

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Wellock, Preserving the Nation (PN) pp. 29-78.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas that come out of Wellock, pp. 29-78 on the MyCR discussion boards any time before Thursday, September 4 at 11AM.

Week 3 / September 9 & 11

T– SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Mike Davis, “How Eden Lost Its Garden” in Reading 2 available on the website, Gage The Shape of Reason, Chapter 3, and Bedford Handbook (BH), review pp. 437-461; informal in-class writing; Introduction to Research.

Assignment: Post what you consider to be the main argument of website Reading 2 and two ideas you have about what is important about Gage, CH 3, on the MyCR discussion boards any time before Tuesday, September 9 at 11AM.

Th— SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Wellock, Preserving the Nation (PN) pp. 79-96; Gage, SOR chapters 4 & 5; BH, read pp. 462-488 on MLA citation and 685-89 on historical questions and thesis statements.

Assignment: Post at least two historical research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas that come out of Wellock, pp. 79-96, and two of the most important ideas you saw in Gage, CH 4 and CH 5 on the MyCR discussion board any time before Thursday, September 11 at 11AM. Based on our discussion of Gage chapters 4 & 5, be prepared to write informally on possible research questions.

Week 4 / September 16 & 18

T– SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Mike Davis, “The Case for Letting Malibu Burn” in Reading 3 available on the website, and They Say, I Say (TSIS) “Preface” & Chapters 1, 2, & 3 and BH pp. 530-568 to cite Reading #3 for In-Class Writing #2.

Assignment: Be prepared for In-class Writing #2 using ideas from TS, IS to respond to Reading 3—students should print out a copy of Reading 3 and bring it with them to class for In-class Writing #2. Second period, groups will meet with Peter and George to discuss research paths.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Wellock, PN 96-134.

Exercise: Students will be randomly assigned a reading from the website (#s 4-10) on which they will report and respond on Thursday, September 25.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about Wellock, pp. 96-134, on the MyCR discussion board any time before Thursday, September 18 at 11AM.

Week 5 / September 23 & 25

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Wellock PN pp. 135-188.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about the reading in Wellock, pp. 135-188 on the MyCR discussion board any time before Tuesday, September 23 at 11AM.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Whatever Website reading from #s4-10 you were assigned on 9/18.

Exercise: Student presentations on Website selected readings.

Week 6 / September 30 & October 2

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Assignment: Research Inquiry & Progress Essay #1 due as a printed paper copy at 1:15. Bring an electronic copy on a flash drive for possible revision during the second period in LRC 105.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Jean Pfaelzer, “The Eureka Method” in Reading 11 available on the website and They Say, I Say Chapters 4, 5, 6, & 7 for In-Class Writing #3.

Assignment: Be prepared for In-class Writing #3 using ideas from TS, IS to respond to “The Eureka Method,” Reading 11—students should print out a copy of Reading 11 and bring it with them to class for In-class Writing #3.

Week 7 / October 7 & 9

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Gage SOR Chapter 6 & Wellock PN, pp. 189-252; review BH pp. 243-267 for assignment.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about Wellock, pp. 189-252 and two of the most important ideas in Gage, CH 6, on the MyCR discussion boards any time before Tuesday, October 7 at 11AM.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Gage SOR Chapter 7.

Assignment: Group Project Report version #1 due (at least 8-page group description of problem/question/issue, how our reading addresses the problem, and research undertaken thus far). Each group must have a printed paper copy of the entire report in class with them at 1:15. Groups will refine their group presentations and Group Project Reports. Any additional research materials can be collected in LRC 105.

Week 8 / October 14 & 16

T – SC 208 (1:15 class) and a room to be announced; Group presentations. Groups not presenting will pose questions to the presenters and discuss how their own research relates to that of the other groups.

Assignment: Group Project Final Electronic Version due Thursday October 16th, by midnight

Th—SC 208 (1:15 class): Group presentations. Groups not presenting will pose questions to the presenters and discuss how their own research relates to that of the other groups.

Assignment: Group Project Final Electronic Version due Thursday October 16th, by midnight

Week 9 / October 21 & 23

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); Individual Assessment Conferences (3:15 class)

Read: From the Folks Who Brought You the Weekend, Chapter 5.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about the reading on the MyCR discussion boards any time before Tuesday, October 21 at 11AM.

Exercise: Assessment conferences.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); Individual Assessment Conferences (3:15 class)

Read: Weekend, Chapter 6.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about the reading from Weekend on the MyCR discussion board any time before Thursday, March 27 at 11AM.

Exercises: Students will be randomly assigned a reading from the website Readings 12-18 on which they will report and respond on October 30.

Assessment conferences.

Week 10 / October 28 & 30

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Lawrence Richards, “The Postwar Offensive against Organized Labor” in Reading 19 available on the website & TSIS, Chapters 8, 9, & 10.

Assignment: Be prepared for In-class Writing #4 using ideas from TS, IS to respond to Richards.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Whatever Website reading you were assigned 12-18 on October 23.

Exercise: Student presentations on Website selected readings.

Week 11 / November 4 & 6

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Weekend, Chapters 7 & 8; review BH pp. 142-151 for assignment.

Assignment: Post at least two historically-based research questions and any thoughts/observations/ideas about each chapter in Weekend on the MyCR discussion boards any time before Tuesday, November 4 at 11AM.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Weekend, Chapter 9.

Assignment: Post at least one historically-based research question and any thoughts/observations/ideas about Weekend 9 on the MyCR discussion board any time before Thursday, November 6 at 11AM.

Exercise: Students will be randomly assigned a reading from the website Readings 20-25 on which they will report and respond on November 13.

Week 12 / November 11 & 13

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Weekend, Chapters 10, 11, & 12; Gage SOR Chapter 8.

Assignment: Post at least one historically-based research question and any thoughts/observations/ideas about each chapter in Weekend on the MyCR discussion boards any time before Tuesday, November 11 at 11AM.

Th – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Read: Whatever Website reading you were assigned 20-25 on November 6.

and Gage SOR Chapter 8. Exercise: Student presentations on website Readings 20-25.

Week 13 / November 18 & 20

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Individual Presentations. People not presenting will pose questions to the presenters and discuss how their own research relates to that of others.

Th-- SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Individual Presentations. People not presenting will pose questions to the presenters and discuss how their own research relates to that of others.

Research Inquiry and Progress Essay paper copy in 1:15 class; Research Inquiry & Progress Essay #2 due as a printed paper copy at 1:15 pm.

Week 14 / November 25 & 27

T-No class meetings—Students should continue to work on research projects, in preparation for the final 10+ page paper.

Th-No class meetings

Week 15 / December 2 & 4

T – SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Individual meetings with the Instructors will be scheduled throughout the week in CA 134. Students should bring a paper copy draft of their final research paper.

Th-- SC 208 (1:15 class); LRC 105 (3:15 class)

Individual meetings with the Instructors will be scheduled throughout the week in CA 134. Students should bring a paper copy draft of their final research paper.

Finals Week / December 8 - 12

Assignment: Individual Research Project Essay printed paper copy and electronic upload to Turnitin.com due Thursday, December 11th by 3 pm.

Log into Turnitin.com and use the following to get to our class:

Class ID#: 7519822

Password: grizzly

Plagiarism: The final research project essay must be posted to Turnitin.com. The process is simple and takes only a few minutes. We will explain the procedure during the semester. Plagiarism, which is the act of claiming another writer's words or ideas as your own without citing them as a source, is a serious breach of academic conduct and will result in failure of the assignment and possible failure for the course. We will discuss it in detail during the term. If you aren't sure whether you're about to plagiarize or not, ask one of us about it.