COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OVERVIEW:

This course is designed to help students develop the ability to express ideas in a coherent and persuasive written form appropriate for the college level. In this class, students will refine their abilities to read critically and to recognize the qualities of effective writing. Students will produce writing based on observation, experience, discussion, analysis of texts and readings, reflection, and research. Students will learn to analyze and produce diverse genres, with attention to how writing techniques may be used to achieve intended purposes in different rhetorical situations. Additionally, students will develop skills associated with the collaborative nature of writing and critique, which will include attention to writing as a recursive and social process.

Revision and reflection form the core elements of this course, since they deepen our insights and critical abilities with language. The course will be student centered, meaning active and informed participation of all students is essential to our work. Lectures will be scarce, so come prepared to engage and discuss. Students in this course should form a community of supportive, engaged writers who take responsibility for learning, who make appropriate rhetorical choices, who compose strong, relevant arguments featuring analytic claims supported with credible evidence, and who are committed to improving each other's writing and thinking.

*The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the course syllabus and assignment calendar as needed.

COURSE THEME: FOOD MATTERS— WRITING ABOUT FOOD, COMMUNITY, and (AGRI)CULTURE

In this course, we will examine and write about how rhetoric and culture connect to food in our everyday lives, on both individual and social levels. We will look at the production and distribution of food, food heritage and cultures, language and beliefs about food, and representations of food as related to individual choices and practices that have significant social, cultural, and environmental consequences.

Careful analysis of the cultural commonplace “you are what you eat” will guide our inquiry for the semester and link what may seem like personal decisions at first glance to their wider ramifications. If this common saying is true, then how and why does it matter what we eat? What guides or constrains the daily choices we make about food and the options we recognize as available when we make those choices? How and why might we intervene in established choices, patterns, practices, beliefs, and relationships with food, whether on individual, community, or cultural levels?

Taking a critical, analytical look at something as allegedly simple as what we’re eating for breakfast or dinner can promote new insights into how cultural values are continually reinscribed and at times challenged—both through food practices themselves and the rhetorical moves and situations giving meaning to these practices. This writing course will provide the opportunity to examine the variety of possible answers to the question of what our food means—to our bodies, to our families, to our communities, to our cultures, and to the land.

We will begin with analysis of personal participation in the food system that will extend to local, global, and transnational sites as we trace how and why certain foods are on our plates and examine what those foods mean to us, to society, and to the planet on their varied journeys from seed to table.

ENGLISH 1A COURSE OUTCOMES:

Active participation in this class will enhance your ability to do the following:

1. Analyze argumentative claims.
2. Respond to arguments with persuasive critical essays.
3. Locate, synthesize, and document sources for use in response to arguments.
4. Revise and edit for sentence structure and mechanics.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

---

The general rule for college classes is that for every hour spent in class, students should expect to spend a minimum of 2-3 hours working outside of class. For this 4-hour per week class, expect to spend at least 8-12 additional hours reading and writing to earn an average grade, depending on your entering skill level. Earning excellent grades will require investing more time and effort than the expected minimum.

Major assignments for English 1A include:

- Two Major Papers (1500+ words) & accompanying Working Portfolios.
- A 6-8 page Research Project requiring a variety of genres (proposal, annotated bibliography, persuasive analytical paper featuring MLA style and Works Cited)
- 15 Reading Responses (500+ words each).
- Leading class discussion for a chosen section of The Omnivore’s Dilemma as part of a small group & written reflection about the activity.
- Active, engaged participation in class discussion and activities.
- Peer Response Groups: Class time to participate in respectful, critical response to peer writing in small groups. To get credit you must be present, on time, and come prepared with multiple copies of your draft.
- Regular in-class reading, writing, collaborative work, and discussions in groups of various sizes.
- A substantially revised, properly formatted Final Assessment Portfolio (see below for details).

*The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the course syllabus and assignment calendar as needed.

Meeting Deadlines:

Due Dates for all assignments are in the course calendar, which will be distributed the first week of classes.

Assignments are due in properly formatted hard copy paper form at the beginning of class AND posted to the appropriate MyCR Forum by midnight of the due date. To get full credit for assignments, they must be submitted both ways by the deadline. Submitting work online will not substitute for bringing paper copies to class.

All Major Papers and the Final Assessment Portfolio must be submitted to Turnitin.com, as required by the English Department.

Disrespecting due dates will result in significant grading penalties—unless an extension has been requested and granted IN ADVANCE or unless official documentation excuses an absence.

You will receive 2 late coupons. These coupons will give you an extra week to submit a single assignment with no penalty to your grade. The coupons cannot be used for a rough draft of a major paper or peer review sessions.

Work will not be accepted more than one week after the original due date. Assignments not submitted within a week of the due date will receive a zero. Instructor comments and feedback may not be provided on late work.

It is your responsibility to communicate with me BEFORE due dates to request extensions or alternate due dates. For students current on course work and regularly attending class, occasional extensions may be provided, but such decisions will be at the discretion of the instructor and will be made on an individual basis.

Expectations—Stay on top of your work:

Because details of your homework and assignments will be explained and handed out in class when they are assigned, your regular attendance is crucial for success in the course and for understanding the expectations of individual assignments. Extensive independent reading and writing will be necessary for each class meeting, where you will often work individually or in small groups using the materials you've been asked to prepare ahead of time. Often, you will generate or revise writing assignments during class using new techniques modeled for you.

All students are responsible for coming to class on time and prepared, for knowing when things are due, for asking questions about things they don't understand, and for contributing to an energetic and respectful learning community. By enrolling in this section of English 1A, you are committing to meeting our specific course goals and must be willing to participate in the activities and techniques involved. Please understand that genuine learning often involves discomfort with new and unfamiliar ideas and processes—expect to think deeply about challenging, complex issues that don't have simple answers. Expect to stretch your capabilities. How much you learn and how much your writing improves will depend on the intensity of your commitment to this class, your willingness to interact and collaborate with each other, and your genuine engagement in course activities.

Members of this class are expected to show respect and tolerance for each other. We will undoubtedly hold and explore different views on many issues, but that should not prevent us from listening to and learning from each other. Please conduct yourself in a respectful, professional manner appropriate for a college classroom. Students whose behavior becomes disruptive or disrespectful will be asked to leave and will receive an absence for the day.

The Assessment Portfolio

In the last few weeks of the course, you will compile a final assessment portfolio of 2-3 revised pieces of writing and a reflective cover letter. You will need to revise course writing significantly using techniques learned in the course and feedback provided by your readers (me, your peers, and perhaps Writing Center tutors).

This final portfolio must contain a minimum of 13 pages of revised writing (including the cover letter). The portfolio cannot contain more than 4 individual submissions (including the cover letter). The portfolio is worth 25% of the course grade and will be due during our scheduled final exam time.

*The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the course syllabus and assignment calendar as needed.

The Working Portfolios:

Each major paper will be submitted in a folder along with all the smaller assignments and drafts that have contributed to its development. To document your hard work and your developing writing skills, it is essential to keep all the work you produce, even false starts or drafts you might typically throw away.

Save both electronic and paper copies of your work. Start a new file when you begin a new draft of a paper. The Working Portfolio serves to guarantee the intellectual integrity of your work by providing a record of your ideas, labor, and efforts developing each assignment specifically for this course. As such, the working portfolio can document and archive your developing writing process, which will be important when writing the cover letter for the final portfolio. The Working Portfolio can also safeguard you against charges of plagiarism.

Working portfolios will have cover sheets detailing point values for individual assignments expected to be in them. These sheets must be completed outside of class so that the work is ready to submit at the beginning of class on the designated due date. Working portfolios submitted without completed cover sheets or without passing essay drafts that meet the minimum word requirements will not earn credit.

Paper Format:

Unless the writing occurs in class, all work you submit must be ready at the start of class on the due date. Papers should be typed using a standard 12-point double-spaced font (Times, Calibri) with one-inch margins and must be stapled. For every assignment you turn in, unless I indicate otherwise, use a single-spaced heading that includes your name, the instructor's name, the course number, the assignment, the date, and the word count. Please type this heading on the left side of the first page of every out of class assignment.

Example Heading:            Student Name
                                     Ms. Shannon Mondor
                                     English 1A
                                     Reading Response #1
                                     January 9, 2015
                                     Word Count: 523

**For assignments longer than one page, have a right-aligned header (typed or written in by hand) with your last name and the page number. Do NOT forget to staple your work before submitting it.

MyCR:

MyCR will be used extensively in this section of 1A. Please make it a habit to visit the site and explore what it contains.

- The "Syllabus" link is where I will post course documents, readings, and handouts I give out during class.
- The "Forums" link is where you will post all the assignments created outside of class that do not get submitted to Turnitin.com.
- The "Resources" link contains links to interesting, credible websites and files related to the course theme and activities.
- I will update the Gradebook approximately every three weeks. Click on "Gradebook" to check your progress.

Grading Policy and Criteria:

Major writing assignments (the Major Papers and Persuasive Research Project) will be considered developing until submitted in final form as part of the assessment portfolio at the end of the term. Major assignments will earn points for the required components of each working portfolio. Each major paper will have a cover sheet indicating all required assignments and their point values in the Working Portfolio. Completing this cover sheet and organizing the working portfolio before coming to class is the responsibility of each student.

*The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the course syllabus and assignment calendar as needed.

The Major Paper Working Portfolios will involve awarding points for the smaller required assignments leading up to the revised essay (prewriting, organization techniques, peer review, etc) and assessing the quality of the essay, for which students can earn full, partial, or no credit.

Students must submit passing essays to earn points for the Working Portfolio. Working Portfolios will not earn credit unless they contain both rough and revised drafts of the essays. No points will be earned for a Persuasive Research Project Working Portfolio unless it contains 10 complete Annotated Bibliography entries.

Some shorter, informal, and in-class assignments will be evaluated credit or no credit (✓/⊙). Most formal assignments (including reading responses) will be given a mark denoting quality, ranging from ✓+, ✓, OK, ✓-, or zero. Work that does not meet minimum expectations of quality and/or length will not receive credit.

All word counts are required MINIMUMS—you can always write more than required, but writing fewer words than the minimum word count will earn less than full credit.

While many assignments will count as credit/no credit, their initial high quality will contribute to your increasing development as a writer and thinker. Writing at your best ability at every opportunity will help you produce the most impressive revised pieces for your final portfolio. I will provide written comments on your work to highlight your existing writing strengths, to share a reader’s reaction to what you have communicated, and to suggest possible ways to improve through revision. Only by giving me the opportunity to respond to what you consider your best work can my advice help you improve and submit even better work in the assessment portfolio.

Breakdown of your Grade:

1. Citizenship and Course Work 75%

This part of your grade includes all the required reading and writing assignments as well as your preparedness, engagement, attitude, attendance, collaboration, in-class work, presentations, contributions to daily discussion and Peer Response Groups.

- Major Essay Working Portfolios 15%
- Persuasive Research Project (Annotated Bibliography required) 20%
- Shorter Formal & Informal Work (writing, presentations, participation, RR) 40%

2. Assessment Portfolio 25%

Students must complete both major essay working portfolios and the research project in order to be eligible to submit an assessment portfolio. Also, students must be passing with a 70 or above to submit an assessment portfolio. Assessment portfolios must contain a cover letter and 2-3 revised pieces of writing and be at least 13 properly formatted pages long to be eligible for scoring.

Any portfolio that does not meet minimum submission requirements will be considered incomplete and will not be assessed, meaning you will not earn credit for this course. No student can pass this course without submitting an assessment portfolio that conforms to stated requirements and earns a C or higher.

*The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the course syllabus and assignment calendar as needed.

Attendance Requirements:

The English Department Attendance Policy

Since regular attendance is a critical factor in student success, students at the college are expected to attend all sessions of each class in which they are enrolled. Students may not miss more than two weeks of class. Since this class meets three times a week, students should not exceed 6 absences for the semester. If a student exceeds the limit on absences before week 11 of the semester, the instructor will notify the student that he or she has been dropped. After that notification, students are still responsible to go into Web Advisor and withdraw themselves from the class, in order not to receive an F. After week 10, excessive absences will likely result in failure.

Attendance is mandatory for this class. I will take attendance at every class meeting. If you are absent, make arrangements to submit your work on time. Also, find out about any new work assigned before returning to class so that you do not fall behind. Email is a good way to communicate with me in these circumstances. Students who miss all or part of the first week of classes without contacting the instructor may be dropped from the class.

You may miss up to 4 classes with no consequence to your grade. Each absence after the 4th will reduce your course grade by 3%. Being regularly absent, late, or unprepared for class will severely damage your ability to pass this course. Students who accrue more than 5 late arrivals may lose up to 5% of their course grade. Partial absences will count towards the total allowable absences, so please be mindful of your punctuality. If you come late, check in with me before leaving class to be sure that I have recorded your attendance.

Missing 7 or more classes (more than 2 weeks) will result in an "F" for this course.

**Students who have perfect attendance, participate actively, and submit all required assignments will receive a 3-point bonus to their final course grade, meaning a 90 would become a 93.

Other Important Matters:

Unplug: Please leave your personal electronic equipment turned OFF and out of sight while this class is in session—unless you are using devices to enhance your success in the course. Texting is not allowed in this class. Neither is listening to music, unless I indicate students can do so if they choose during a specific activity. Disrespecting this policy may result in points deducted from your final course grade for your technology interfering with our work. Repeated problems with this issue may require you to leave your devices on my desk.

Write for a Public Audience: All writing done for this course should be of a public nature, meaning that you should feel comfortable sharing it with your peers, the instructor, and a wider public audience. Expect your writing to be read and responded to in diverse ways by a variety of readers. All work submitted for credit in this class must have been created expressly and exclusively for this course. Unless you stipulate otherwise, I may use work produced in this class for professional or pedagogical purposes (examples for future students or in conference presentations).

Get Connected: If you have questions or comments about the course, please share them with me. If you send an email, identify yourself by your name and the class section you are in and provide a context for your question or message so that I have enough information to give you a solid answer. I am open to negotiate some course policies and due dates based upon mitigating circumstances, but you must communicate with me in a timely manner in order for that to happen. Email is the best way to communicate with me. I check it daily.

Stay Connected: You will be expected to check MyCR regularly for course updates and for links to course related information, including handouts and readings. In addition, all writing assignments and presentation materials will need to be posted to MyCR. Activate your MyCR email account and check it several times each week, including the days we don't have class. Find computer resources on campus if you do not have them available at home.

Academic Honesty:

Academic dishonesty, including plagiarism, has no place in the college setting. Turning in work you did not produce will not help you grow intellectually, nor will it satisfy the requirements of the course. Any student who knowingly submits work that is not his or her own or work that has not been written expressly and exclusively for this course

*The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the course syllabus and assignment calendar as needed.
