Welcome!

Students are often led to believe that writing is primarily about avoiding errors and providing the right answer, or that writing is a "natural" talent that some people have and others don't. Some authorities tell us that "students can't write," "texting ruins your ability to write," and "good writing never uses 'I.'" English 1A will question these assumptions, and many others. This class will also ask you to consider questions no one has likely asked you before: How is identity linked to reading, writing, and power? How can we use inquiry, critical thinking, and collaboration to write about and understand how meaning is made in the world? How do we use language to make meaning as citizens, scholars, researchers, and agents of change? How do our explorations of these questions change across contexts and our participation in them? How do we change communities and how do they change us? We'll explore these questions as a community and in collaboration. We'll study the subject and practice of writing, build confidence as writers and learners, and learn, too, that writing is a lifelong practice—that all writers have more to learn.

Course Description

English 1A is a transfer-level course in critical reading and reasoned writing. Students analyze issues and claims presented in visual, oral, or written arguments and write analytical and argumentative essays based on those issues. Research and source-based writing, employing correct MLA documentation, is required; minimum 6,000 words formal writing. Prerequisite: English 150 or 102.

Course Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing English 1A should demonstrate the following competencies:

- Read, analyze, and evaluate a variety of primarily non-fiction texts for content, context, and rhetorical merit with consideration of tone, audience, and purpose.
- Apply a variety of rhetorical strategies in writing unified, well-organized essays with arguable theses and persuasive support.
- Develop varied and flexible strategies for generating, drafting, and revising essays.
- Analyze stylistic choices in their own writing and the writing of others.
- Write timed essays in class exhibiting acceptable college-level control of mechanics, organization, development, and coherence.
- Integrate the ideas of others through paraphrasing, summarizing, and quoting without plagiarism.
- Find, evaluate, analyze, and interpret primary and secondary sources, incorporating them into written essays using appropriate documentation format.
- Proofread and edit essays for presentation so they exhibit no disruptive errors in English grammar, usage, or punctuation.

COURSEWORK REQUIREMENTS

Presence

Students are expected to comply with classroom policies as detailed below in the COURSE POLICIES section of this syllabus. These policies include (but are not limited to) arriving to class and conferences on time and remaining for the entire session; refraining from disruptive and disrespectful behavior, including unauthorized cell phone use; printing hard copies of required assignments before class; bringing all required materials and texts to every class session; and actively engaging in all class sessions, workshops, discussions, and other activities. Each absence and failure to observe these policies will result in a deduction to the Presence grade. Students must attend 26 of 30 class sessions and the final exam period to pass the course. Classroom activities require attendance, so it is impossible to make up missed sessions.

Reflection

Each week, students will engage in a variety of reflective and metacognitive writing exercises, including weekly reflective journals (RFJ) posted to Canvas. These journals ask students to first read and annotate selected passages from the course textbook or other readings posted online and then compose a minimum 400-word RFJ that reflects on the assigned reading and its relevance to student writing and writing practices. Toward the end of the semester, students will draw upon these readings, journals, and all other course content to compose the Reflective Portfolio Cover Letter.

Reading

Most weeks students will read and annotate selected texts from the course textbook or other readings posted online. An analytical Reading Response (RR) associated with each text must be posted to Canvas by the published deadline, and each student must participate in one Reading Wrangler (RW) presentation of an assigned reading. Occasionally, students will also take short "open book" reading quizzes online or in class.

Essay and Research Units

Students will complete three academic essay/research units consisting of a series of assignments referred to as The Writing Process. These assignments may include prewriting, drafts, revisions, workshops, activities, exercises, research, conferences, as well as feedback from instructors, peers, and consultants.

- Unit 1: Literacy Sponsors Analysis (LSA)
- Unit 2: Rhetoric of Protest (ROP)
- Unit 3: Discourse Community Ethnography (DCE)

There will be a great deal of work-shopping and peer response, which will involve reading each other's papers. Because essays will be read by classmates, please choose topics that you feel comfortable sharing with your peers.

Collaborative writing is often the most successful writing—it is imperative that students take group and peer response activities seriously and approach them with dedication and professionalism. Not only are such activities worth a considerable portion of the course grade, but successful collaboration will result in stronger final drafts of essays. Students who have practice providing feedback to other writers become more adept at providing "feedback" to themselves to improve their own writing.

Assessment Portfolio Requirements

At semester-end students earning at least a C in the course will submit an Assessment Portfolio (AP) of extensively revised final draft essays that will be assessed holistically by me. This portfolio is the culminating assignment of the semester and serves the purpose of a final exam.

COURSE GRADES

Course Grade Contracts

Students are in charge of determining the grade they wish to earn in this course by successfully completing the required assignments necessary to earn either an A, B, or C. A letter grade of D is not a passing grade in English 1A. All assignments are evaluated by the instructor (Complete or Incomplete) according to the published minimum criteria. Review the proposed contract requirements below. We will finalize Course Grade Contracts during the first few weeks of the semester.

COURSE POLICIES

Homework

To be successful in a college course, students should plan to spend two to three hours completing work outside of class each week per academic unit; therefore, in this 4-unit English 1A course, expect to spend at least 8 hours each week reading, writing, revising, and researching.

Communication

We will utilize a variety of methods (both online and face-to-face) to maintain contact throughout the semester:

- Check weekly Canvas announcements for upcoming assignments, activities, schedule changes
- Post questions and answers to the peer-monitored Canvas Peer Q and A Forum
- Contact instructor through the Canvas email system (replies within 24-48 hours, often sooner)
- Attend weekly office hours for more personal concerns or in-depth assistance with coursework
- Arrive to class a few minutes early for quick questions and clarification
- Review assignment feedback through Canvas rubrics and comments

Attendance and Promptness

Attendance is essential in a collaborative writing. Arriving late or leaving early is disruptive and interferes with my instruction and other classmates' learning and participation. If work, extracurricular activities, or personal schedules overlap or interfere with scheduled course dates and times, please take a different section of English 1A.

Please visit the restroom, make phone calls, and print assignments before class. I call roll promptly at 2:50 PM. If students arrive late, it is their responsibility to see me after class that same day to verify attendance. See me immediately for a consultation if attendance and missing assignments become a problem.

Since regular attendance is a critical factor in student success, students at College of the Redwoods are expected to attend all sessions of each class in which they are enrolled. In general, absences may be considered excessive when the number of absences exceeds the total number of hours that the class meets during one week. Our course meets two days per week for two hours each session; therefore, four (4) absences are allowed for the entire semester. A fifth (5th) is considered excessive and will result in a failing course grade. Faculty may drop students for excessive absences through the end of the 10th week of the semester.

First Week Attendance Policy: Students who have been absent from a class session within the first week of instruction, without notifying the instructor before the absence, will be dropped from the course.

Participation and Preparedness

Participation and preparedness are essential in a course that requires both workshop-style class activities and significant online class participation. Please strictly observe the following course policies:

- Attend class and conferences regularly; arrive on time and remain for the entire session.
- Come to class / conference prepared with required texts, assignments, and materials in hand.
- Thoroughly annotate all assigned readings and bring them to every class session
- Fully and thoughtfully engage in class and online workshops, responses, and discussions.
- Log on to Canvas regularly and complete assignments per instructions and by deadline.
- Print essays and other required assignments before class and submit them as instructed

Classroom and Online Behavior

Please adhere to the class and online behavior policies listed below. Students who disregard these policies will be asked to leave the classroom and may be dropped from English 1A and assigned a grade of “F” if behavior is deemed egregious.

- Always maintain tolerance, respect, and appropriate social behavior in class and online.
- Be fully present, free of drugs and alcohol. (Impaired students will be asked to leave class.)
- Turn off and store cell phones, tablets, and laptops unless approved for class use.
- Refrain from texting or accessing personal email and social networking sites during class.

Deadline and Submission Policy

Each week, students are responsible for accessing Canvas to view the current schedule (located in the weekly modules) to review, complete, submit, and print assignments, readings, quizzes, and discussion forums as directed. Developing and maintaining excellent time management and organizational skills are critical to successful completion of this course.

Essay drafts must be formatted according to MLA guidelines; templates are provided to simplify this process. Documents uploaded to Canvas must be in .doc or .docx. Our Canvas site will not accept other file formats, and improperly formatted assignments will not receive credit. Essay drafts must be submitted online and also printed for in-class activities. I do not accept assignments via email, and I will not print assignments for students.

Reading and writing homework as well as class activities build on one another and emphasize cumulative learning; therefore, timely completion of assignments online and in preparation for class is essential to student success and to the success of the entire class.

Please see me as soon as possible if you are experiencing difficulty completing coursework, or if extenuating circumstances are affecting your attendance or academic performance. I want you to be successful in this course.

Academic Honesty

To discourage plagiarism, the CR English Department requires English 1A students to post all essays to Turnitin.com before they can receive credit. The process is simple and can be completed through our Canvas site. If tempted to plagiarize or cheat, or if confused about properly citing sources, please see me immediately so that we can work together to address these issues.

FINAL EXAM

Attendance and participation at the scheduled final exam period is mandatory. Students who fail to attend the final exam period and submit an Assessment Portfolio in person will receive a course grade of “F”. The college has assigned our class the following final exam date and time:

Tuesday, December 11, 2018 | 3:15 – 5:15 PM | HU 214
