Course Grading:

All assignments are due at the beginning of class, unless otherwise specified. Late work is not accepted. The course will be graded as follows:

- Participation (5 points): Students will complete various in class group activities for participation credit. Students must actively participate and attend the full class meeting to receive credit.
- Reader Response (5 points): Students will submit a response for each chapter read. The response may include, but are not limited to, questions/reflections related to the reading. Expand on any topic that you find intriguing. Submissions will be graded on minimum word count (250 words), grammar, and similarity percentage (5% is acceptable). Responses are due at the beginning of the week before the first class meeting.
- Quizzes (10 points): There will be weekly quizzes on the topic being covered. These will be administered at the beginning of class on the second meeting of the week. You will not be able to complete the quiz if you arrive late.
- Annotated Bibliography (10 points): You will select a peer reviewed article of choice and complete an annotated bibliography that addresses the article's main issues, including the hypothesis, statistical analyses conducted, and the results of the study.
- Presentation (20 points): Students will present their research paper on an assigned date. Presentation will be graded on organization and clarity, coverage of research paper topics, time of the presentation, and answers to questions posed by the class.
- Research Paper (100 points): For this assignment, students will produce a research proposal for a topic of choice that includes a literature review and a hypothesis, how the variables of interest will be measured, addressing any potential implications of the study if the hypothesis were to be supported.
- Exams (100 points each)

Disorderly Conduct:

Students who are disruptive during class will be asked to leave and receive no participation credit for the day. The environment of this classroom will be one that fosters intellectual discussion and one that respects the different views of the participants of the class. Students under the influence of drugs or alcohol will be asked to leave. Students who are disruptive will be suspended from the course for one or two days, at the discretion of the instructor. Any assignments or tests due on the dates missed will not be able to be retaken or turned in late. Students must follow instructions or will be asked to leave.

Academic Integrity:

Plagiarism or cheating will not be tolerated. All turned in assignments must be the student's original work. Any student caught cheating or plagiarizing will receive no credit for the assignment and be reported to the Dean of Students.

Student Commitment: This class requires a nine hour per week commitment of your time. You will have to regularly attend class, carefully read textbook chapters, submit thoughtful reader responses, complete a research paper, and successfully demonstrate learning in quizzes and exams. Class attendance, conscientiousness, attention to details, reading, writing, and study skills are critical for success.

Note: There are no extra credit assignments offered. This syllabus may be subject to change. Students will be informed if any changes occur. Students that miss two class sessions before the Census date will be dropped from the course. Administrative procedure (AP) 5075 allows instructors to withdraw students from class for non-participation or excessive absences through the 10th week of class.
